1. Our use of cookies

Cookies are small text files that are placed on your computer by websites that you visit. They are widely used in order to make websites work, or work more efficiently, as well as to provide information to the owners of the site.

2. How we use cookies

We use cookies for a variety of reasons detailed below. There is no standard option for disabling cookies without completely disabling the functionality and features they add to this site. It is recommended that you leave on all cookies if you are not sure whether you need them or not in case they are used to provide a service that you use.

3. Disabling Cookies

You can prevent the setting of cookies by adjusting the settings on your browser (see your browser Help for how to do this). Be aware that disabling cookies will affect the functionality of this website and prevent user logins. Therefore it is recommended that you do not disable cookies

4. The Cookies we set

4.1. For Logged In users (Database users) only

We set a session cookie for logged in users only. This is a temporary cookie that is only valid whilst your account is signed into the website and is removed when you log out. It is required to make the website work.

4.2. Third Party Cookies

In some special cases we also use cookies provided by trusted third parties. The following section details which third party cookies you might encounter through this site. These are set for all visitors of the website.

> Google analytics
> This site uses Google Analytics. These cookies are used to collect information about how visitors use the website, including the number of visitors to the website, where visitors have come to the website from, and the pages they visited.

4.3. Other service cookies

Third party services such as YouTube, Twitter or other video services may set cookies if you activate a link from this website (for example in our news section). We do not set these directly, so please refer to their website policies for further details.
